BONAR LAW RESIGNS.

MEDICAL ADVISERS INSIST

HEALTH QUEST FAILS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, May 20.

Mr. Bonar Law has resigned on the urgent recommendation of his medical advisers. It is announced that His Majesty received the news with the greatest regret.

DOCTORS' BULLETIN.

"UNABLE TO PROMISE IMPROVEMENT."

LATER.

A communique issued from Downing Street says that Mr. Bonar Law's voyage did not improve his health and on his return to London he was examined by his medical advisers who signed the following bulletin:

"In spite of his rest, the Prime Minister's voice is still unsatisfactory. We are unable to promise an improvement within a reasonable time. The state of the Prime Minister's general health is not good."

The bulletin is signed by three doctors. The communique continues that in consequence of this document Mr. Bonar Law immediately placed his resignation in the hands of His Majesty who was graciously pleased to accept it.

NO SUCCESSOR YET.

MINISTERS OUT OF TOWN.

LATER.

It is authoritatively learned that no Minister has yet been summoned to see His Majesty regarding the vacancy for the Premiership. Nearly all Mr. Bonar Law's late colleagues are out of town.

EARL CURZON NEXT PREMIER?

LATER.

It is believed in political circles that His Majesty will offer Earl Curzon the Premiership and that he will accept.

HARD COURT TENNIS.

CHAMPIONSHIP SENSATIONS.

ST. CLOUD, May 20.

In the international lawn tennis hardcourt championships a sensation was caused by the defeat of the American pair Johnson and Miss Sears by the Dutch pair, the Diemerbooms 8-6 6-1 and the narrow win of Johnston over the young French champion Gentien 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

POPE'S ALPINE CLIMBS.

PERILOUS EXPLOITS.

All the world knows that the present Pope in his earlier years was one of the most famous mountaineers, but few are aware of the exact character of his exploits.

"Climbs on Alpine Peaks" contains accounts from his Holiness's pen of three of his ascents. They have been translated by Mr. J. E. C. Eaton and are introduced to the British public by prefaces from the Bishop of Salford and Mr. Douglas Freshfield, who himself is one of the greatest of Alpinists. He says of the Pope's thrilling pages:

"They show in every page the kindness and humour of the man, as well as the technical skill and judgment of the true mountaineer. They bear eloquent witness to his passion for the heights and the glories they reveal. The snows of Soracte viewed from the windows of the Vatican can be but a poor substitute for the vision of Monte Rosa, shining faintly flushed and 'phantom-fair' among the spires of his former cathedral."

It must, however, be added that the Pope greatly underestimates the perils of one of the climbs which he made, namely, that up the Italian face of Monte Rosa, which has been regarded for generations as among the most dangerous in the Alps.

LOST ON A GLACIER.
He started as a member of a party from a hut at a height of 10,500 ft. at 1 a.m. and after 18 hours of terrific climbing reached the summit and passed the night in the open at the height of 15,000 ft. on a ledge.

It was impossible to take a step in any direction. Anyone sitting down found his feet dangling in space; we had, however, every facility for stamping them, provided we were careful not to lose our balance. The cold was intense. Our coffee was frozen hard, and our wine and eggs resembled it, in that they were neither respectably drinkable nor eatable.

The party, descending towards Zermatt, lost their way in darkness on the Gornier Glacier and had to spend a second night in the open. Even the most robust and hardy mountaineers would not envy the Pope such an experience. But he makes light of it.

THE MATTERHORN.
Almost as trying was his climb of the Matterhorn in a single day when the rocks were bad. Of the place where the slip occurred in the first famous accident, described by Whympere, the Pope says:—
As seen from Zermatt it looks inaccessible; it is not really so, but it is only practicable for those who can depend absolutely on their sure-footedness and on the strength of their arm.

On that terrible ridge, just under this danger-point, the party were benighted and had to bivouac in the open, but his Holiness declares that they passed the night "not only without regret but with pleasure, with considerable enjoyment."

It is interesting to learn from the Bishop of Salford that nothing has given the Pope greater pleasure than the courteous greeting from the Mount Everest Expedition, that he sat up late at night reading the illustrated report of the expedition; and that he cherished with great regard a fragment from Everest which the British climbers sent him.

This is a book which will delight climbers and interest all who would know more of Pius XI's early years.

Dr. G. Swan returned to China by the "Delta" which arrived here on Saturday. Other passengers were Mr. J. R. Fulton; Mr. E. J. Smith; Rev. E. Hedburg; Bishop and Mrs. Locke; Dr. and Mrs. Cottingham.

It is probable that C. C. Wu, son of the late Dr. Wu Ting-fang and a former Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs in Canton, will be recalled from Shanghai to take the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, reported the organ of the 72 Guilds at Canton.

MOVEMENT OF STEAMERS.

The O.P.S. S.M. "Empress of Asia" arrived at Shanghai on May 19 at noon. She is scheduled to sail for Hong Kong on May 21 at 11 a.m. The O.P.S. S.M. "Empress of Asia" is a 10,000-ton steamer, built at Hong Kong, and is the first of a new class of 12,000-ton steamers to be built at Hong Kong. She is expected to be in service by June 1.

BRITISH LEGION AT HOME.

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL SERVICE.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, May 20.

Addressing the annual conference of the British Legion, Earl Haig stated that the branches in the country at the close of the year numbered 2,089. Employment was found for ten thousand men during the year in spite of an almost unprecedented depression.

Between three and four thousand members of the Legion in the afternoon marched to the cenotaph for an impressive memorial service after which the Prince of Wales deposited a wreath on behalf of the Legion.

VOROWSKY MURDER.

SWISS GOVERNMENT DISCLAIMS RESPONSIBILITY.

NO PRIVILEGES FOR UNOFFICIAL ENVOYS.

BERNE, May 20.

The Federal Council refuses the demands contained in the Russian Note and declines all responsibility for the assassination. It declares that the Russian delegation at Lausanne, not having an official character, was not entitled to the privileges accorded official delegations to the conference.

[Vorowsky, the Soviet envoy, was shot dead on May 10 at the Hotel Cecil at Lausanne, and two other Russians, Ahrens and Dimitrieff, were wounded. Their assailant was supposed to be a Fascist. An earlier cable stated that the Swiss Government had received a Note from the Soviet Government, charging it with responsibility for the assassination.]

AMERICA'S ACCOUNT WITH GERMANY.

CLAIMS PRESENTED FOR $1,479,000,000.

"LUSITANIA" LIABILITY ADMITTED.

WASHINGTON, May 20.

A statement presented to the mixed-claims commission established to fix German war liabilities has been published. It shows that the claims of the American Government and citizens total $1,479,000,000 of which the Government claims $366,000,000. There is a list of 12,416 claimants headed "claims arising from the sinking of the Lusitania" totalling over $22,000,000 and Germany has already admitted liability in this regard.

ALDWYCH "GREEK TEMPLE."

LONDON'S LATEST BUILDING.

Bush House, the huge white building on the island site in Aldwych, is nearing completion. Technically, it is "finished in carcass," and will be ready for its first tenants this month. It is designed for a modern commercial house, and already tenancies have been secured by two banks, an American Government institution, a large engineering firm, and a number of trading concerns. Viewed from Kingsway, the outward appearance of the building suggests a Greek temple. There is a broad, high portico on this side, larger than is customary in London commercial architecture, but not out of proportion to the general dimensions.

DEDICATION.
Two handsome capitals support the dome, around which is to run the inscription: "This building is dedicated to the friendship of the English-speaking peoples." A space has been left in the arch for a sculptured group. There is a second main entrance in the Strand, opposite the Church of St. Mary-le-Strand; and in this case the architect has reproduced in the facade and door the features and scale of the church. These porticoes and the 35 carved capitals which run round the building apart, the outside is severely simple, of plain Portland stone.

The tower base in 144 ft. from the Strand level and the total floor space in the premises is 110,000 sq. ft. Two new roads between Aldwych and the Strand are being laid down, one on either side of the building. Entering from Aldwych, the visitor passes through a semi-circular loggia with a marble seat running around it. A main staircase descends from the loggia, which is flanked by two walls, has a Travertine marble staircase. The eleven floors are being covered by Javanese wood, supplied by the Indian Ministry authorities, and the timber is known as "Javanese". This is to be placed in that there will be no need for covering other than occasional rugs.

HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide-table given below has been compiled at the National Almanac Office in London from the results of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Yau Ma Tei, Tsim
during the years 1922-23.

The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty
Chart, which has been found to be 4 feet below mean sea level.
To obtain the depth of water on the date given at the Victoria Naval Yard add 1 foot 4 inches, and on the pier at Leimong Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet to the height given in the table.

ODDS AND ENDS.*MAINLY SCISSORS LOOT.*A Cigarette Warning.

A new disease—cigarette rash—has come to the notice of doctors, says the Daily Express. Its first victim is a native of Havana. The man, a constant cigarette smoker, developed a mottled, purplish skin eruption. There seemed to be nothing to account for this, but a doctor ordered him to stop smoking. He dropped his cigarettes, and the eruption waned. When he smoked again the rash reappeared. The experiment was repeated until the doctors were satisfied that the cigarettes caused the eruption. Medical authorities state that itching of the skin is often caused by excessive smoking. Although actual eruptions have not hitherto been recorded, these authorities see nothing surprising in the case from Havana.

Doom of the Skyscraper.

Mr. R. Martin Wilson, referring to the development of the zoning regulations of New York City, in a paper read before the Town Planning Association of Queensland, stated that after a very exhaustive study the leading business men and property owners of New York had recognised the absolute necessity of controlling building development. Apart from the disproportionate space lost by providing elevator shafts, air and light wells, and staircases in skyscrapers, compared with those in moderate-sized buildings, the excessive development of this building had led to a mutual smothering one of the other, with a consequent heavy loss to all property owners in their neighbourhood.

The Daring Duke.

Mr. Mallaby-Deely must be feeling rather nervous about all the reports of the various "stunts" contemplated by the Duke of Leinster, who has just been made a bankrupt for the third time, says Tatler in the Glasgow Herald. For the famous provider of ready-made clothes did a "deal" with the young Duke—this was before he came so unexpectedly into the dukedom a short time ago—and in return for a cash allowance, took over all the investments that go with the title. It also included the famous Irish residence near Dublin and a mansion in London. So that the Duke is in the position of being allowed a very little while his title has a yearly income of many thousands. The interest of Mr. Mallaby-Deely is the life, and as he paid a thumping big price for his bargain, it must (all this) with some alarm when he reads of the Duke's wild projects. I believe that the Duke of Leinster has in mind something far more sensational than the recent motor race from London to Scotland for the purpose of the Duke's annual fund. What he actually intends is to light a bonfire.

Bedroom Colours.

One predominating colour should be chosen for the decorative scheme of a bedroom, and this should be applied to the walls, including the woodwork, door, and chimney-piece. This predominating note should be kept light in tone and not too strong in colour. The use of such colours as pale yellows, greens, and blues, or light-toned greys is indicated as the most suitable for the purpose. Against such colours the curtains and chair-covers should act as a foil, and both should be stronger in colour than the walls. If, for instance, the walls of a bedroom are treated with a pale primrose yellow, the curtains may be of powder blue, but the blue must be light in tone to be in harmony with the yellow. For if the tone of the blue is too deep, the contrast between the curtains and the walls will be too pronounced, and the former will lose much of their colour value, and consequently will appear dark and heavy in effect. The importance of harmony of tone as well as harmony of colour has often been insisted upon in these articles; and at the risk of some weariness, perhaps, the point must be emphasised again.—R. W. Symonds, in Furnishing and Decoration Section December Good Housekeeping.

Lights and Atmosphere.

It is of much interest to those engaged in sign lighting and signalling to know that lights of different colours show varying degrees of ability to penetrate atmosphere (says the New York Herald). Some calculations based on experiments give the following results for the minimum intensity visible in a clear atmosphere at a range of two miles. In these calculations light sources of equal area are assumed:—Red, 2.37 candlepower; green, 1.96 candlepower; white, 1.71 candlepower. The range of visibility of any light source depends, of course, upon the intensity of the source. However, it must not be supposed that by doubling the intensity the range will be doubled. The relation between range and intensity varies for different colours. The great absorption of light in an atmosphere laden with water vapour is a well-known fact. A foreign Government found that a fog of 1,000,000 candlepower which were installed in a light-house had less ability to penetrate a fog than a 10,000 candlepower lamp. This indicates that electric incandescent lamps, having more red rays, would be superior to arc lamps for use in light-houses. Dust and smoke unquestionably interfere more with the transmission of blue or green light than with red light. Therefore, when viewed through a smoky atmosphere, all lights it must (all this) with some alarm when he reads of the Duke's wild projects. I believe that the Duke of Leinster has in mind something far more sensational than the recent motor race from London to Scotland for the purpose of the Duke's annual fund. What he actually intends is to light a bonfire.

Riddle of the Sphinx.

While the Earl of Carnarvon and his party are busy in bringing to light the treasures of the Pharaoh Tutankhamen from a tomb at Luxor, in Egypt, American museums and antiquarian societies are turning their attention to what may soon prove to be a far richer and most amazing field for the search of the archaeologist—Yucatan. Another sphinx has been discovered at Chichen, in Yucatan. The Maya legends connected with it are already fairly well known (the New York World states), and if authenticated by future discoveries will set at rest all those questionings which have for so many years disturbed the curious minds of Egyptologists. Centuries before the Pharaohs ruled over the Nile lands their ancestors, the Mayas, flourished in Yucatan. Some of their hardy explorers pressed far to the westward, touched the shores of India, passed through ancient Assyria, where the imprint of their culture is still to be observed, and settled in the lands of Egypt. The very earliest Egyptians were thus Maya settlers. All the work that has thus far been accomplished with the Maya ruins in Southern Mexico gives startling confirmation to this unique theory. The Maya language, not yet completely deciphered; the Maya art and architecture show the most striking resemblances to the earliest Egyptian examples. Maya legends seem to some scholars to be unmistakably the primitive forms of Egyptian folk tales and religious mythology. These savants consider the Mayas as quite distinct from all other old races of South American Indians, as a people whose civilisation had flourished and passed into decay long before the first modern European adventurers landed in the New World. Their theories explain also how it is that the earliest known Egyptian culture, 600 or more years old, exhibits an amazingly high degree of development; that the Egyptian civilisation has no "infancy."

THIS HAPPENED IN TROUBLED IRELAND

A disingenuous medical authority has written: "When a man's stomach goes wrong he starts on the downward grade." Indigestion, dyspepsia, and other forms of stomach disorder produce depression and melancholy, conditions of mind which are sometimes as fatal to health and happiness as virulent diseases.

Weak, thin blood is one of the common causes of indigestion. To build up the blood there is nothing better than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Read the experience of Mr. Patrick McManus, of the "Keshcor Hoel," Newcastle, Co. Wicklow.

"For a long time I was a martyr to indigestion," stated Mr. McManus. "I suffered excruciating pains in the back and chest, and everything I ate caused me to vomit."

"For four weeks I went without solid food in my efforts to gain relief, but it was no use. I was doubled up with pain in the stomach caused by wind and gas."

"I grew very weak and thin. All food tasted sour to me, and even the sight of food produced a feeling of nausea. I tried various medicines, but nothing did me any permanent good. I thought I should never get better, and became very depressed."

"Then I was recommended to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had not taken many before there was some improvement. The first thing I noticed was that I felt better in myself. Then I found my appetite returning, and I was able to eat solid food without suffering pain afterwards."

"I continued with the pills, and made rapid progress. No longer did I suffer with wind in the stomach, all my pains disappeared, and I became buoyant and cheerful. I am now quite free from indigestion and feel as well as ever I did in my life."

"If troubled with indigestion, or any other ailment due to impure, weak blood, or diseased nerves, begin your cure today with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Of medicine vendors everywhere, or post for 7/6 per bottle, 2/11 to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, Ringway Road, Birmingham."

AMAZING COURT MARTIAL ORDER.

Which is the more amazing, the order against publishing court martial decisions or Lieut. Colonel Nicholson's reasons for this step, it is truly hard to say. The order itself would be merely absurd were it not also harmful. First it means that while the accused may be found innocent, he must not have that fact proclaimed. His name must remain under a cloud. Even if his guilt is obvious from the evidence, the accused may still suffer injustice. Suppose he was merely cautioned. Suppose the Court found extenuating circumstances. Common law provides for these very points, making it libellous to publish the charges against any accused person without also duly giving the Court's finding when that finding is favourable. However, even more damaging than these aspects is the attack the order makes against justice itself. Virtually it means that the military court's decision becomes final, absolute. Within regulations giving unusual scope for severity, sentence can be imposed, however harsh, without check. That final tribunal before which every civil court prisoner is tried now is swept away. Public opinion must remain silent—scorned, flouted, shut out. Three men whose training, whose position, whose whole outlook each makes it excessively hard for them to rise above the besetting doubt that they are prejudiced or unduly severe—these three men are to mete out sentences which the public shall never hear anything about. The highest Court in the Empire cannot do that, not the Privy Council itself.

Interviewed by our reporter on Saturday, Lieut. Colonel Nicholson gave many reasons for this amazing order. But he did not give the real reason—his own editorial of May 15, he made wild charges about personalities. Just how absurdly childish these charges are he would speedily learn did he search our files. The China Mail has made repeated protests against the court martial system where it involves cases we hold should go before the civil courts. One protest we made only in December last, when we pointed out that the "Tamm" assault case was essentially one for civil trial. After showing that the attack was anything but a "departmental" offence simply involving naval discipline—indeed a civilian might easily have been the victim—we laid it down that rarely has any of the officers forming these courts the special legal training and experience necessary to perform the functions of a criminal court judge. Moreover, however great the integrity of each, we said, not one, by the very nature of his position in relation to that of the accused and the fact that he is steeped in the strictest Service traditions, can usually in the eyes of the world be deemed entirely free from the doubt of prejudice or special interest in enforcing discipline: a doubt which could never apply to a civil judge. Furthermore, we extended this argument to cover also medical boards, barristers' boards and every other form of specially interested trial. Last Tuesday we simply stated our case anew and our remarks naturally applied to the officers forming the recent courts we were quoting. Yet Lieut. Colonel Nicholson alleges personalities! Perhaps it will interest him to learn what every one else must have seen—that our leader dealt with these officers, not as men, but as examples, ciphers in a system. Perhaps it will also interest, and possibly shock, Lieut. Colonel Nicholson to learn that we are now dealing with him from this very same standpoint. Lieut. Colonel Nicholson, we have said, did not give the real reason why this order was issued. He came very near doing so, however, when he alleged that the China Mail had been unfair. Obviously, the order was issued to punish criticism. With what results?

Only one paper has offended but three others must also suffer; the court martial prisoner's rights must be trodden under foot; public opinion must give way; and justice itself must (as we have shown above) come under a doubt. Was ever anything more choleric, more despotic? But what matters that when the order not only punishes the guilty paper but also silences further criticism? First it shows what one indiscretion will cost and next it makes court martial decisions free from all comment. How can verdicts be discussed when they are kept secret? This, however, ignores one vital point. Representing the public, the Press reserves its right to criticise every court in the Empire, from the lowest depths tribunal to the House of Lords. And any attempt to thwart that right must fail inevitably—miserably. Hongkong is only an outpost in the Empire, but the Briton's rights are the same everywhere under the Union Jack. Hongkong is only one distant Crown Colony but it has a voice which, when occasion arises, can make itself heard in the highest councils. Will it become necessary to use that voice over the present issue? We hope not but we doubt. Officialdom is ever stubborn.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Messrs. Lane, Crawford Ltd. will be closed on Thursday, Empire Day.

The s.s. "Fatsan" left for Canton last evening on her scheduled run after repairs to her propeller shaft had been completed.

Near Shatin yesterday, a Chinese widow was knocked down by motor car No. 96. She suffered injuries to her legs but refused to go to hospital.

A very attractive drama "Beyond Price," in which the old favourite star Miss Pearl White appears will be shown on the screen of the World Theatre to-morrow and Wednesday. Her charming appearance and clever acting will no doubt attract cinema goers during these two days.

The May Criminal Sessions commence to-morrow. There are fourteen cases involving twenty-two defendants. The list includes three charges of unlawful possession of arms, two bribery cases, charges of burglary, robbery, receiving stolen goods, wounding and assault. Two of the accused will stand their trial for child stealing and one man has to answer a charge of rape.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

M. Goubault, former French Consul at Swatow, has been appointed Consul General at Canton.

The wedding of H.R.H. the Prince Regent of Japan and H.H. Princess Kuni has been "informally" fixed for the end of November.

Mr. F. H. Yeats, manager of the Mercantile Bank, Colombo, has left for home, and has been succeeded by Mr. G. Marshall, manager of the Penang branch of the bank, who arrived in Colombo early in April.

Mr. W. D. Scott, Commissioner of Lands and Mines, Johore, has left Malaya, with Mrs. Scott, on retirement from the Civil Service, which he entered in 1891 in Ulu Selangor, after holding for a short time a commission in the Lincolnshire Regiment. His service, extending over thirty-two years, has embraced appointments in all parts of the peninsula as District Officer, Magistrate, etc.

Mrs. Starr, of the Peshawar Medical Mission, whose courageous journey to rescue Miss Ellis has ended so successfully, has herself experienced the full horrors of Frontier fanaticism. Some years ago she and her husband were working together in charge of the Peshawar Mission Hospital, when one night Dr. Starr was aroused by a pretended call to attend a case of sickness. He was attacked as he stepped from his bedroom into the verandah, and hacked to death before his wife's eyes.

News reached Japan last week that Mr. J. P. Leite, who had been in the service of Jardine, Matheson & Co. for about twenty years, practically all that time being spent in Kobe, died in California. He resigned his post on December 5th last year, owing to ill-health, and proceeded to California, but apparently without gaining any benefit through the change to that salubrious climate. His many friends in Kobe, says the Japan Chronicle, regret the loss of his death.

BONAR LAW.

HIS POLITICAL CAREER.

MAN OF "MEEK AMBITION."

Despite the Official denial issued the week before last, recent cables have prepared everybody for the announcement received to-day that Mr. Bonar Law has resigned the Premiership of Britain on the urgent recommendations of his medical advisers. A Reuter message on Saturday indicated that increased anxiety was being felt regarding his health and political future and the week-end cables made it evident that his sea trip in search of health had not been successful.

Andrew Bonar Law.

The Right Hon. Andrew Bonar Law P.C., LL.D., M.P. was born in New Brunswick, Canada, and is 65 this year. Formerly a Glasgow iron merchant he first entered Parliament as the representative of the Blackfriars Division of Glasgow in 1900 and during his political career has held the posts of Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade (1902-6), Leader of the Opposition (1911-15), Secretary of State for Colonies (1915-16), Chancellor of the Exchequer (1916-18), Lord Privy Seal (1919-21), Leader of House of Commons (1916-21), member of War Cabinet (1916-19), Leader of the Unionist Party (1911-21).

The following character sketch of him was penned by Mr. E. T. Raymond in the Outlook when Mr. Bonar Law succeeded Mr. Lloyd George as Prime Minister: "Our new Prime Minister was once described as a man of 'meek ambition,' and the generalisation is as just as most things of the kind. Of his ambition there can be no doubt; his re-emergence so soon after his break-down shows that he cannot rest in private life, where there is a political pie his finger itches to be in it. Indeed, without the urgings of a very considerable ambition, however meek, he could hardly have got, without family, political pull, or even traditional British upbringing, from the Nova Scotian manse and the Glasgow debating society to that command of the Conservative Party which he wished to claim the Premiership in 1916. But at the critical moment his meekness prevailed.

"Mr. Bonar Law makes a strange figure as Prime Minister, for he has played second fiddle so long and with such inspiration that it is a little difficult to visualise him in the leading rôle. His chief qualifications would seem to be his direct and straightforward character and the fundamental sanity which distinguishes him intellectually, except when, as in the Irish affair, he is affected by some obscure touch of fanaticism. On the other hand, he is unfortunately not to have much knowledge of or interest in foreign affairs, and, to judge from recent examples, he tends in this department (of all things) to indulge that inclination of utterance which he has so largely outgrown in other directions.

"He might be a successful Prime Minister if, merely presiding over a Cabinet, co-ordinating departments, and managing the House of Commons, he could abandon the management of essentials (which must for long be mainly connected with foreign policy and finance) in thoroughly capable hands. It will probably be fatal to his own reputation, and disastrous to the country, if he attempts to be the kind of Prime Minister Mr. Lloyd George has aimed at being. His real métier is the management of Parliament.

"Mr. Lloyd George's great Coalition feat has been a thing by itself. He has not so much run the Coalition as been the Coalition. Mr. Bonar Law has not the personality for maintaining Mr. Lloyd George's steady supply of 'miracles' month in and month out.

The Home Secretary, Mr. Bridgeman, has advised the King not to interfere with the death sentence passed on Fred Wood, 29, travelling upholsterer, for the murder of Miss Margaret Gilchrist White, at Bramhall, Cheshire, on December 18.

INTERPORT CRICKET.

HONGKONG RECOVERS "ASHES."

"FINEST EFFORT SEEN ON GROUND"

On Saturday afternoon news was received that Hongkong had won the cricket interport at Shanghai by three wickets. After the first-cable at tiffin time giving the position of the game this was not altogether unexpected, but it must be admitted that when the Shanghai eleven was announced on Tuesday last, most people thought it a forlorn hope. When at the end of the first day's play it was learnt that our Northern rivals had scored 351 all out and that Hongkong had 2 wickets down for 72, it was felt by some that Shanghai would claim an innings victory.

On Thursday Hongkong carried the overnight score to 332 and then dismissed Ollerdesen, Claxton, Hayward, Capt. Barrett and Muriel for 133. Then it was that the keenest interest was evinced as it was felt that Tom Pearce's men would snatch a victory. Though their opening batsmen failed, the Shanghai stalwarts made 255 in their second venture but the Hongkong men were not alarmed as it was reported that the wicket was still good. When stumps were drawn on Friday, Hongkong still had 5 wickets in hand and required exactly 90 runs to win. Enthusiasts were singing that with Pearce and Wild still batting there was a chance of Hongkong recovering the "ashes" carried home by G. M. Billings's team in November last year.

It is difficult to single out names for special praise but all will agree that Tom Pearce, who carried shoulder high off the field at the conclusion of the match, and who made the highest aggregate of the twenty-two batsmen engaged, rose to the occasion at a critical juncture and proceeded to wear down the Shanghai attack and knock off the runs. In the fourth innings he went in first and was not out when the game was over. True, he took about five hours to score his 145 runs, but it will be conceded by all that steady play was the only game possible under the circumstances. This is his highest score in interport cricket and incidentally his third century. Of the others, Sayers, by scoring 57 in the first innings set a good example to the younger batsmen. Rumjahn also played up to his home reputation having opened both innings and scoring 21 and 38. Owen Hughes was our star bowler having 10 wickets to his credit for 166 runs; in addition to this, he made a valuable 30 in the first innings. Next to Pearce, Wild made the most runs. He had the misfortune to be run out after he had had surprised everybody by making 83 in the first innings as the result of an effective partnership with Capt. Dods but he also partnered Pearce at the important juncture in the second innings. Besides helping to resist the Northern bowlers he scored 34 giving him an aggregate of 127 runs. The others also contributed to the victory, each in his own way and all are to be heartily congratulated.

In the China Mail of Tuesday last, it was said that "if the Hongkong men play their best and are helped by the uncertainties of the game there is just a chance of their bringing back the flag" and this has been borne out to the hilt. It was advocated at the beginning of the close season that our defeat last November was partly due to the selectors relying on men with established reputations instead of testing new blood. They have been experimenting this time and their nominees have not been found wanting. May the good work continue.

THE PLAY.

Play did not commence till 12.30 p.m. on Saturday when the wicket was still in good condition. Without having to worry about time, Pearce and Wild settled down to wear the brunt of the Shanghai attack as represented by Quayle and Allison. The large crowd of spectators did not stint applause when our skipper reached his century and he continued to bat confidently. Shortly after this he had the misfortune to lose Wild who was taken by Capt. Barrett at second slip, a one-handed catch off Quayle. Dods was next in but he was out for a "duck" before he could settle down. Omit joined Pearce and excitement ran high. Without taking any risks they carried score to 241 for 7; Pearce then being called, when the fifth interval was called. After lunch, the score mounted slowly but surely in spite of frequent changes in the bowling. The atmosphere became tense when a few more runs were required to give Hongkong the victory and then a loud cheer from the crowd announced that Shanghai's total had been passed. The Hongkong men went on to the field and carried their skipper shoulder high off the field.

Congratulations were showered on the team and the skipper and a cable from Mr. Billings, the captain of the last Shanghai team to come down here, is of particular interest. It is to the Hongkong Cricket Club and contained the

BURYING THE HATCHET.

DINNER OF RECONCILIATION.

An interesting instance of the dinner of reconciliation between those estranged in politics, says the Manchester Guardian, was that at which Disraeli and Lord Carrington buried the hatchet. In 1832 Lord Carrington, then Robert Smith, was Disraeli's opponent at the hustings. The contest left them with such embittered relations that for six years they did not speak; but in December, 1838, Disraeli met on the road near Bradenham "a cortege of dandies and grooms" who were about to call on him conveying an invitation from Lord Carrington to dine at Wycombe Abbey. At first Disraeli refused, but presented by Lord Forester, Carrington's brother-in-law, he afterwards consented. The completeness of the reconciliation may be judged by some extracts from Disraeli's diary: "Our party was rather noisy, but very gay. I did not get home until past mid-night, or rather near the dimes of one. I could scarcely resist their entreaties that I should remain and send for my toilette in the morning." In another comment Disraeli added: "Thus in a few years has evaporated the feud of centuries." But there was a significant arrivé perce: "I don't think that such estrangements should be succeeded by rapid intimacies." It is better to be sought than to weary.

LINCHEG FAILURE.

NOTE TO FOREIGN OFFICE.

BANDITS WANT FOREIGN GUARANTEES.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

PEKING, May 20.

The Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps has handed a note to the Foreign-Office stating that the highest military authorities will be held responsible for the failure to obtain the release of the Lincheng brigades and captives.

Mr. Bamber (one of the captives) has arrived with a message from the brigades for the French legation refusing it is understood, the offer of a Chinese "hostage" and a Chinese guarantee, also demanding foreign guarantees that there will be no reprisals and that they will be enrolled in brigades under their own commanders and given control of certain districts.

BACK FROM WUCHOW.

"TAIMING'S" TRIP UNDER ESCORT.

The river steamer "Taiming" which was the last boat to leave here for Wuchow, returned yesterday morning after an exciting trip during which she was under the escort of H.M.S. "Moth." There was a good deal of firing going on at Shihung when she arrived there and bullets were whistling overhead. On the advice of the gunboat's commander she complied with a demand that she should submit herself to a search for Kwangtung reinforcements and when it was established that there were no soldiers on board she was allowed to proceed.

The "Moth" directed the river steamer to carry straight on for the rest of the voyage to Wuchow, leaving the gunboat, which had her guns ready for action to deal with any signs of hostility. No opposition was offered and the "Tai Ming" arrived at Wuchow on Thursday afternoon. The foreign community up there welcomed her arrival very warmly for their supply of provisions was running very low. The "Tai Ming" took up a general cargo consisting of rice and flour. She is shortly to return with supplies of milk, which are greatly wanted in Wuchow for the infants there, will be taken up.

STRANDED "KUMSANG."

BRIGHTER SALVAGE PROSPECTS.

The Manila Times of May 17 says:—

Prospects for floating the "Kumsang" seem brighter to-day with the receipt of a telegram by Smith, Bell and Co., from the Captain of the distressed ship.

The wire states that steam was up in the donkey engine and also in one of the main boilers. The water has been pumped out of the engine room and stoke hold and has now been reduced to three feet from a depth of 8 feet.

Two steam pumps have been installed, the "Loongsang" which sails to-day from Manila will take provisions and also a number of coal baskets to the "Kumsang" for the purpose of discharging 2,000 tons from the vessel. Thirty-six coal baskets were sent overland on Tuesday by Smith, Bell and Co., and it is thought that they will reach the ship sometime to-morrow. The salvage tug "Henry Keswick" is standing by, although on account of the fact that the "Kumsang" is high and dry, on the beach it cannot get within 300 feet of the vessel.

LOCAL WEDDING.

AUMULLER-UHR.

At the Peak Church on Saturday, Miss Innes Amy Laura Uhr, daughter of Mrs. L. K. Uhr, of Western Australia, was married to Mr. Karl Henry Aumuller of the British-American Tobacco Co. (China), Ltd., of Hongkong. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Copley Moyle, Senior Chaplain of St. John's Cathedral. The bride, who was given away by her mother, Mrs. L. K. Uhr, wore a gown of cream georgette over white silk, with cream broad-satin hat, whilst Mrs. Uhr's dress was of black georgette with black panne hat. Mrs. F. B. Tollman, who was the matron of honour, was gown in a dress of white voile with oriental trimming and wore a white tassel hat trimmed with silverettes. Mr. H. E. Parkinson was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at "The Falls," No. 82, The Peak, the residence of Mr. Parkinson. The newly married couple left later for their honeymoon which is to be spent at Repulse Bay Hotel.

"A NEW RASPUTIN."

GERMAN IMPOSTOR'S CAREER.

SENTENCE OF IMPRISONMENT.

A sentence of twenty-one months' imprisonment passed at Oldenburg temporarily checked the many "Messiahs" who have cropped up in Germany since the war. Louis Hauser has been called "a new Rasputin," and though the term is liable to misinterpretation, there are no doubt points of resemblance between him and the strange being who, during the first years of the war, was the most powerful personality in Russia. If there had been in Germany a court like that of Tsar Nicholas, Hauser might to-day have been sitting in the seats of the mighty instead of in jail, whither he has been brought rather by defiance of the authority of the State than by pretensions of divine attributes. As he is only 42, and his temporary eclipse will probably serve but to stimulate the zeal of his disciples, he will certainly be heard of again, and in any case his extraordinary record is worthy of a permanent place in the world's chronicle of imposture and credulity.

Born in modest circumstances in a little Wurttemberg town, Hauser at the age of 18, against the wishes of his parents, emigrated to London, but a year later moved to Paris. Here he married a Frenchwoman known for her beauty, who brought him a dowry of 100,000 francs, and speedily blossomed out into a prosperous commission agent, partner in a champagne factory, and owner of betting offices in Switzerland. Already at that time the Berlin police and several German chambers of commerce issued notices warning manufacturers against the bogus exhibitions organised by him, which sold worthless "diplomas" at high prices. That did not, however, prevent him from living many years on an extravagant footing. He has a large, luxuriously furnished flat in the most fashionable quarter of the city, and was a regular visitor to Trouville and Interlaken during the seasons there. The war put an end to his profits, and he squandered his accumulated savings on the neutral soil of Switzerland, where he is said also to have run up debts to a total of 400,000 francs. At the end of his resources, Hauser underwent a process of "conversion" and became an itinerant preacher. Attired in a monkish hair robe and sandals, his tall, athletic figure attracted attention wherever he went. A long, flowing beard, carefully groomed, and locks falling about his shoulders emphasised the distinction of his handsome features. But his doctrines soon brought him into conflict with the Swiss police, and after serving a sentence of fourteen days' imprisonment for resisting their intervention he was expelled from the country.

"YOUR MASTER." That was in the spring of 1919, and when Hauser crossed the frontier into Germany he found people's minds prepared by the disillusionment of the war and the peace for the reception of almost any kind of religious quackery. In enormous placards he announced that he was "the truth, the life, the saviour," and the public of the South German towns flocked to his meetings, though exorbitant prices were charged for admission. He realised that there are circumstances in which nothing succeeds like impudence, and instead of flattering his audiences he reviled them with lofty contempt, calling them dogs, pigs, asses, and vipers. At the same time he assured them that he alone could save them not only from their zoological conditions and the unpleasant consequences of the war, but also from all the ills to which their eternal souls were heir. But Bavaria was not a favourable spot for religious innovations. The Catholic Church became uneasy, and Hauser was given notice to move on.

His next chief point of attack was Leipzig, where the largest hall in the city was crowded by those eager to hear him. A fervent community gathered round him, adopted his methods of dress and coiffure, and tried desperately to pluck out the heart of his new gospel. But here, too, he soon had trouble with the police and found himself once more in jail. Undeterred, he wrote to the faithful from his prison: "Your master, the saviour, curses the Sodom and Gomorrah of Leipzig. If the truth cannot be suppressed, checked, or eliminated, it will be victorious. I live, weave, and am the truth."

Shaking off the dust of Leipzig from his feet, Hauser continued his march northwards. By time he reached Berlin he was figuring mainly as "the apostle of chastity" who was going to teach mankind to overcome its sexuality. Here, too, he made his inevitable appearance in criminal courts, and in reply to the judge's order to take his place in the dock stertorally declared, "The time is at hand when no one but myself will command." The actual charge against him was that of swindling a paper which he had refused to pay for one of his advertisements. It appeared that in such cases he was accustomed to tell his creditors that they would receive their money from heaven as soon as they believed in him and his miraculous powers. The further he travelled more fantastic and profane his professions became. At Hamburg he started a paper which he called after himself, "The Hauser," and for which he demanded the then extravagant price of 1,000 marks. In this publication, in which he called himself "President of the United States of Europe," he announced that he had secured as literary contributors Michael Kohlhaas (sixteenth century Brandenburg rebel), John Huss, Nietzsche, Robespierre, and "Jesus of Nazareth."

A MISSING BRIDE.

That, in spite of this and similar extravaganzas, Hauser was extending his sway over educated people of good social position was suddenly proved in a very curious way. A few weeks previously, just as the Ruhr occupation was beginning, thirty papers published an advertisement announcing his engagement to the daughter of Admiral von Pohl, who commanded the German High Seas Fleet at the opening of the war. If the notice had not been printed in French it would have attracted comparatively little attention, but such a preference for "enemy language" at a time when it was even being expunged from the glossary of the kitchen caused quite a stir. This was greatly increased when the president of the Naval Officers' League sent a long communication to the Press explaining the circumstances of the betrothal. From this it appeared that Fraulein Pohl had been keeping house for her widowed brother-in-law, Count Adolf Bothner, a member of a very old and well-known family, who was one of Hauser's disciples, and had there fallen under the spell of "the new Christ." Neither she nor her mother had had anything to do with the publication of the advertisement. By "appropriate treatment" it had been possible "to break the tremendously strong influence of Hauser" to induce her to "flee" from her brother-in-law's house and take refuge in a sanatorium.

A wild hunt by Hauser after his missing bride eventually resulted in the apostle and a number of his disciples being confined in an asylum at Langenhagen, in order that their sanity might be tested. They were, however, too tough a job for the warders of that institution, who, after Hauser, armed with a knife and backed up by eighteen of his followers, violently resisted an attempt to enforce the regulations, had them removed to a more experienced asylum at Hildesheim. There similar scenes took place, but when the warders were reinforced by police Hauser gradually became "normal," and after a time was set at liberty. No sooner had he recovered his freedom than he set to work to rally his devotees, and, having discovered where Fraulein Pohl was hiding, attempted with their assistance to storm the sanatorium. The accusations on which he has been condemned seem to have been connected with this last exploit, though a very brief telegram printed in one of the morning's Berlin papers does not give a clear idea of his character. There has also been talk of a charge of stealing the plate of Count Bothner, who is understood to have been reconverted from Hauserism, but his appears to be still pending.

Lord Reading, the Viceroy of India, has shot four tigers in the Gwalior jungles.

The Hungarian La Fontaine Society organised a matinee in honour of the poet Shelley, which was attended by the British Minister, Mr. T. B. Hohlner, and Mrs. Hohlner, and the staff of the British Legation, and by members of the British colony.

A woman in flames was the astonishing sight that confronted two men in Couper Street, Townhead, Glasgow, recently. The men, at some risk extinguished the flames and carried the woman back to her house. She was ultimately removed to the Royal Infirmary suffering from burns on the left side. Her name is Helen McLean, a widow, of 36 Couper Street. She was alone at the time, and has not been able to give any account of how the fire occurred.

KOWLOON CITY SENSATION.

SANITARY INSPECTOR WAYLAIN.

FOOTPADS' MIDNIGHT ATTACK.

Sanitary Inspector G. E. Roylance was the victim of a murderous assault at midnight last night, which seemed to have more in it than appears on the surface. He is in charge of the Hunghom and Kowloon City districts and it was his custom to visit the Mataukok slaughter house every night, when killing was going on. Last night he proceeded along as usual, starting from his quarters. Three men who had, apparently, been lying in wait for him on the road stopped him at a path behind the slaughter house. According to his report to the police, one of them struck him on the head with an instrument while another drew a revolver at him. Fortunately Inspector Roylance was also armed with a revolver. He drew his weapon and fired a round of his assailant. This man dropped his revolver and ran away, followed by his confederates. Owing to the darkness it was not easy to follow the direction they took and were soon lost sight of.

Inspector Roylance was slightly injured on the head from the blow he received. He could adduce no reason for the attack and thinks that he wounded the man who pointed the gun at him. He picked up the revolver which contained three rounds and these are now in police custody. Inspector Roylance was formerly in the army and was with the Peak Tramway Co., Ltd., before joining the Government service. During the war he rendered signal service with the Hongkong Police Reserve holding the rank of Corps Sergeant Major with the seniority of a Chief Inspector.

CANTONESE SUCCESS.

SHIU HING CAPTURED.

READY FOR CARGOES.

A notification, dated Hongkong, May 19, posted up at the Harbour Office, announces that Shiu Hing was re-captured by the Cantonese last Friday and that cargoes can now be landed there.

On Saturday afternoon advice was received in the colony that owing to the pressing situation on the East River front, Sun Yat-sen had ordered a combined attack on Shiu Hing and that this had succeeded. It was learnt later that the evacuation of the Kwangai troops holding the city was brought about, not so much by military force, as by negotiations by the inhabitants who wished to secure their removal to prevent further bombardments of the place. It is said that the Kwangai troops were guaranteed safe conduct, with their arms and equipment, to Wuchow and were paid a sum of $100,000.

This means that the anti-Sun pressure of both the North and West River fronts has been relieved and that he will be able to despatch more troops to the East River where his troops have been driven back and the remnants of Chen Chiung-ming's army are moving about un molested. Some of the victorious Yunnan troops have already been sent there to cope with the rising but they have not given battle yet.

ONLY A RUMOUR.

SERGEANT AND THE SNAKE.

A story was circulated in Central Police Station quarters this morning to the effect that Sergeant Rogers of the Police had killed a large snake on Bowen Road on Saturday. When interviewed, Sergeant Rogers said that "there was nothing in it" but informants averred that this was due to modesty.

The story goes to the effect that at about 3.30 p.m. on Saturday, Sergeant Rogers was walking along Bowen Road with a friend when he saw a snake of about eight feet in length and 12 inches circumference some distance ahead of him. It was also stated that the snake had its head drawn up in a striking posture but Sergeant Rogers struck it with his stick before it could do anything. After delivering a number of blows Sergeant Rogers is said to have killed the snake and to have taken photographs of it. The snake was ultimately taken away by some Chinese coolies.

QUARRY BAY A.D.C.'S EFFORT.

At Volunteer Headquarters, on Saturday night, Herbert Swears farcical comedy "A Tight Corner" was successfully staged by the Quarry Bay A.D.C.

The plot is very simple. Jack Hyacinth and his wife, a really devoted couple, are "set by the ears" through certain statements made by Samson Quayle, a solicitor and friend of the family who tells the husband that every one is talking about his wife's relations with Barrington Skews, a young dandy, who, while foolish, is quite innocent of any illicit relations. Jack Hyacinth takes the matter seriously and readily listens to Quayle's plan to make his wife give up her male admirers. The solicitor dictates a letter to Mrs. Pertwee which is to be left in an open envelope. The lady is supposed to be in love with Jack. The wife finds the letter and sees through the scheme. She sends the letter, by the maid, to Mrs. Pertwee, who eventually turns up at the house and Jack has very strenuous time in trying to explain matters. The wife returns at a very inopportune moment and Jack is nearly caught in hiding his, unwellcome guest in an oak chest. The chest, with its contents, is eventually sold by auction which leads to amusing complications. Without being invidious, it must be candidly stated, the outstanding character was Mr. G. McLeod in the part of Samson Quayle. At the conclusion of the performance bouquets were presented to the ladies taking part. Jack Hyacinth.....Mr. A. Morrison. Samson Quayle.....Mr. G. McLeod. Barrington Skews.....Mr. W. Robertson.

The Auctioneers'—Men from Den-tons.....Mr. E. Moore. Mrs. Pertwee.....Mrs. G. Gerrard, O.B.E. Mrs. Hyacinth.....Miss Hansen. At the Piano.....Miss E. MacLachlan.

SWATOW INTERPORTERS. HONGKONG DRAW FIRST BLOOD. News from Swatow says that the Hongkong team which left here a few days ago to play a number of matches with Swatow have won the soccer game by two goals to one. Swatow won at billiards, (one match played.) Hongkong won at tennis, by two games.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

MR. BONAR LAW.

LONDON, May 19th.
Mr. Bonar Law is returning to London today on the advice of Sir Thomas J. Horder, M.D., B.Sc., F.R.C.P., the Harley Street specialist.

LONDON, May 19th.
Mr. Bonar Law's summons to London is disquieting to the Premier's supporters who anticipate that his continuance in office will be very brief.

Downing Street professes ignorance regarding the Premier's intentions and hint that all depends on the interchange of medical opinion during the next few days.

LONDON, May 19th.
Mr. Bonar Law when he arrived in London looked tired and ill. He scarcely seemed to recognize his friends among the group awaiting him at the station.

LONDON, May 19th.
Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who had gone to Worcester in order to address his constituents, spoke at the beginning instead of the end of the meeting. He then hurriedly and unexpectedly returned to London, where, according to his own statement, he was faced with the busiest week-end.

PAN-AMERICANISM.

WASHINGTON, May 19th.
Despatches record a growing conviction that the Pan-American Conference at Santiago has intentionally failed to fulfil the hopes entertained. Practically nothing has emerged from the imposing agenda aiming at the limitation of warlike expenditure, the codification of international law, the improvement of communication facilities, and many commercial and economic projects.

The Washington correspondent of The Times declares that a spirit of Latin-Americanism rather than Pan-Americanism dominated the proceedings, and the Monroe Doctrine, of which the United States delegates made much, was the special stumbling-block to the Latin Americans who were suspicious of United States influence under the doctrine.

The most important decision of the conference was the compromise on the subject of representation on the Pan-American Union. The Latinists sought to reverse the policy whereby a Government whose diplomatic relations with the United States were interrupted should not be represented, and the Union finally decided that such States should appoint a special representative.

Disappointment was especially keen regarding disarmaments, on which question the United States was criticised for its failure to supply a definite lead.

IRISH DEPORTES.

LONDON, May 19th.
Of nine more deportees who have arrived at Holyhead seven have been arrested, making sixteen re-arrests. Those arrested were charged with conspiracy.

LONDON, May 19th.
Two of the re-arrested deportees, Sean McGrath, Secretary of the Irish Self-Determination League and John O'Mahoney, a member of the League have been charged at Bow Street with seditious conspiracy. They were remanded in custody.

Several other re-arrested deportees have been charged at various London Police Courts, including a school-master at Greenwich and Young, a musician residing at Marylebone. Both were charged with being in unauthorised possession of firearms. They were remanded.

THE RUHR.

PARIS, May 19th.
A forthcoming further increase in the number of French troops stationed in the Ruhr area is announced by the newspapers, the object being to speed up production, particularly by means of closer supervision of the railways.

The German Government has declined the significance of the new move by declaring that the German workers are beginning to tire while the improvement of the French situation in the Ruhr will hasten the resolution of Germany's economic difficulties to make better plans.

LINCHENG CAPTIVES.

PEKING, May 18.
Reports from Tsoochuang state that the soldiers of the Fifth, Sixth and Twentieth Brigades, who are surrounding the Brigand camps, have not received any pay for eighteen months; accordingly they are selling ammunition to the bandits.

General Tien Chung-yu, fearing trouble from these soldiers, is bringing 1,500 troops on which he can rely for his own protection.

The situation of the Chinese captives is undoubtedly grave. It is reported that Chen Shih-ying, a district salt inspector who was captured at Lincheng, died on Thursday, partly from exposure but chiefly from lack of food; hence it is feared that other Chinese prisoners are near starvation.

TSOCHUANG, May 19.
Mr. Berube, one of the bandits' captives, has been released and is proceeding to Peking to present the bandit ultimatum that, unless the troops are withdrawn by May 22 two British-American captives will be shot.

PEKING, May 19.
Following a meeting of the Diplomats, the Doyen yesterday afternoon handed in a Note to the Waichiaoou, which, it is understood, requests that the highest military leaders be instructed to order their troops to cease firing against the bandits. The Note holds the military leaders responsible for the failure to obtain the captives' release.

PEKING, May 19.
Messages from Tsoochuang indicate Wu Yu Lin and Yang I Teh have given up the idea of becoming hostages and they may hand over the negotiations to others. They will not remain in Shantung.

General Tien Chung-yu has wired to the Chiaooungpu stating that he is sending delegates proposing that the bandit chief Sun Mei Yao be made Commander of Pacification, his assistant to be made chief-of-staff, and the brigands then must release one-third of the captives; secondly, the troops to withdraw, one-third more of the prisoners then to be released; thirdly, the bandits all to be enrolled in the army when the remaining third of the captives will be freed.

Mr. Berube arrived after midnight, bringing a message from the French Consul at Tsoochuang to the French legation, which is understood to contain a Note from the brigand chief to the Diplomatic Corps stating that the troops must be withdrawn. The captives will be held till absolute guarantees are given that the bandits will be safe, not only from immediate punitive measures, but from any reprisals in the future. It is also understood that the bandits are demanding that, after enrolment in brigades under their own commanders, that they be given control of certain districts south of Shantung. It is also reported that the bandits will not accept any Chinese hostage or Chinese guarantee, but must have a foreign pledge for their future safety from reprisals.

It is understood that the Diplomatic Corps is meeting to-day to discuss the message brought by Mr. Berube.

TSOCHUANG, May 19.
The Government delegation returned yesterday. Negotiations appear to have reached a complete deadlock. The bandits merely reiterated their demands, with additional requests for payment of expenses in connection with their return to the army, a supply of food, and also that their agreement with the Shantung Government shall be witnessed by Consuls of six foreign Powers.

PEKING, May 20.
It is reported that the bandits are still making fresh demands, including a guarantee by six Consuls that the agreement made shall be fulfilled. It is feared here that negotiations may drag on indefinitely.

A letter from Mr. Rowlatt states that the captives are being fairly well treated, but that all are living like pigs.

Mr. Rowlatt, in his letter, expresses a need for socks, blankets, fresh vegetables and salt.

TSOCHUANG, May 17.
To-morrow's mission to the hills will be headed by Mr. C. C. Ting and Kuo Tai Sheng.

The mission is very optimistic as regards the outcome of the conference.

They make no secret of the fact that it will be successful, but in view of the preliminary conferences others do not share this optimism.

Mr. Berube, who was released on parole yesterday, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent, stated that he had walked the entire distance from Paozuku.

He was sent down principally to inform the relief party that the troops had not been withdrawn, and that the bandits refused to open negotiations until the soldiers were removed. The bandits threatening severe reprisals.

During the past few days the bandits were by no means gentle.

At a Paozuku inquest on William Bond, 40, a hunchback, who was described as of a very nervous disposition, it was stated that while asleep he attacked his sister and afterwards cut his throat.

The sister, Annie Bond, said that after leaving her brother asleep in his chair she suddenly felt several heavy blows on the head and found him standing by her side with a mallet in his hand.

His eyes were closed and he did not speak to her. She ran into the street screaming, but the passer-by took no notice. Returning she found her brother back in his chair, apparently fast asleep, and she was unable to awaken him.

She left the room for a few moments, and on returning found her brother lying on the floor with his throat cut. Had someone gone into the house when she called for help the tragedy might have been prevented.

A doctor said that he could not understand how Bond could have seen to hit his sister if his eyes were closed.

The Coroner, Dr. H. R. Oswald: It is possible that while in a state of somnambulism he was guided by some sixth sense.

Recording a verdict of Suicide, while of Unsound Mind, the coroner said it was a peculiar case, and he had not had one like it among the thousands of cases he had dealt with.

SUICIDE WHILE ASLEEP.

HUNCHBACK'S "SIXTH SENSE."

and they did not hesitate to prod their captives with their rifle-butts when they were unable to keep up with them.

At present the party are encamped in three temples at the foot of Paozuku mountain.

In spite of the orders issued by General Tien, the soldiers appeared to be pressing on the heels of the bandits, and the latter's patience was becoming exhausted.

Mr. Berube was told by one of the other captives that the bandits had shot five Chinese, who either refused to obey an order or were too slow in complying.

The individual health of the captives is good, with the exception of Mr. Musso, Major Allen and Mr. Saphire.

Mr. Musso had one leg paralysed, and he was also in a weak condition which causes some anxiety.

The other two captives have swollen feet.

Mr. Berube requested that blankets be sent up, as the nights are extremely cold. Those sent up two days ago, apparently, had been stolen.

SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE.

MELBOURNE, May 19.
Rear-Admiral Sir W. R. Creswell, K.C.M.G., K.B.E. (Australian service) commenting on the suggestion that the defence of the Pacific could be better managed from Sydney than Singapore, said he was of the opinion that the selection of Singapore was a wise decision, justifying the fullest confidence.

The Sydney suggestion was useless because the harbour would have to be sealed in wartime.

FAR EASTERN OLYMPIAD.

OSAKA, May 18.
All the athletes are vigorously practising in the stadium.

Experts observations agree that of the track contestants the Philippines have the best sprinters, but in long-distance runners Japan will probably prove superior.

There are not much expectations of the Chinese athletes on the track, but in the field the glories will undoubtedly go to the Chinese.

It is believed that the Pentathlon will witness a very close game between the Chinese, Filipinos and the Japanese.

At football, basket-ball and volleyball champion honours will certainly be retained by the Chinese.

Altogether, about 60 ladies will participate in basket-ball, volleyball, tennis and swimming. In the last-mentioned sport, there will be only Japanese competitors.

In the open tournament, the Chinese ladies will unquestionably prove victorious in basket-ball and volleyball.

OSAKA, May 18.
Prince Chichibu, President of the Games, will leave Tokyo on Saturday evening, and arrive at Osaka on Sunday.

The Emperor of Japan has presented a cup for the Olympic Games.

The Minister for Home Affairs has also provided a cup for the winner of the Pentathlon.

SHARK LEATHER.

GREAT COMMERCIAL VALUE.

FOR BOOTS, AND CLOTH.

The Norwegian fears not the shark. He catches him and works up his head into glue, his flesh into fertilizer, his teeth into "ivory" ornaments, his hide into leather and his liver into "cod-liver" oil.

Nelson Macdonald, of Vancouver Island, believes that the catching and industrial exploitation of the shark is going to make the fortune of British Columbia.

There are millions of sharks in these North Pacific waters, says a New York journal, "and there will never be a shortage of them. The further north you go the more sharks you find, and from Vancouver to Alaska, are their feeding grounds. Taking them from the bottom of the sea is automatic.

Norway has hundreds of such industries; in fact, the only real hook for catching them works on a swivel and comes from Norway, as does also the so-called "cod-liver oil" which invades the markets of the world and is really shark-liver oil manufactured in Norway.

In the shark plant, when the huge fish is being turned into so many substances and articles, there is absolutely no waste.

Business men from Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, and other North Pacific seaport cities sat around a table in Victoria, Vancouver Island, recently, where a firm from Seattle showed the various processes through which sharks passed, and the results attained in glue, leather, fertilizer, and other marketable and needful products.

SHARK HIDE.

At this meeting a Seattle company showed a large number of hides in every stage of tanning. Many of the men assembled were "leather men," and they fingered the product carefully and satisfied themselves that the leather business was entering the initial stage of making up goods of which heretofore they had had no conception.

Shark hides run from an inch in thickness in the older fish to the consistency of paper in the baby shark. Soles of boots, leather for the finest suede shoes, a black pigmented product that would make club bags of most lasting quality, uncrackable lengths of leather that outstrip any patent leather ever made, and which the leather shoemen said was the finest they had ever seen, were among the exhibits, and the thought of all this material right at hand was a revelation to men who had known that there were sharks but thought of them only as a menace to swimmers and destroyers of marketable fish.

In Seattle hip-boots from shark hides are being made, and one Vancouver boot-maker has been using shark leather for other boots. Finer grades of the tanned leather are used for upholstery; coloured and stamped, it is everwearing and rich to look upon.

DURABILITY OF TEXTURE.

The outer skin of "shagrin" must come off in the first place and a process, has been successfully developed which takes this away. It has the exact properties of sandpaper of the rough variety. For very fine work on wood polishing, the "shagrin" of the baby shark must be excellent. Underneath, a section torn off reveals one of the greatest properties of the shark hide. This texture is woven and interlaced as if by a machine, and its extraordinary durability is not equalled by any leather.

It takes fifteen days of specialized process to turn out shark leather, and six months or more of treatment to prepare sole leather. This is anatomically inaccurate, and a better reason perhaps is that the ring was placed where it was less exposed to wear and tear.

However, though it was placed on this finger at the marriage, it was not always worn there afterwards. In pictures of the time of Elizabeth it is seen upon the thumb, and this appears to have been quite an ordinary custom even in the days of George I. In some parts of the Continent it is worn on the forefinger.

Preference was always shown in England for the plain ring. When Queen Mary married Philip of Spain she told her Council it was her will to be wedded with a plain hoop of gold like other maidens.

Many collections contain specimens of rings with inscriptions upon them; sometimes ornamented also with gems and enamel; but these were more common for the betrothal than the actual marriage.

An old writer tells us that at one time the ring was made of iron, the metal being hard and durable to signify the lasting nature of the contract, and the circular shape denoting that love should circulate and flow continuously.

In point of fact, however, a ring is hardly any more necessary than a best man or, giving the bride away, though even a marriage at Gretna was never considered quite decent without it.

The judges have laid down in so many words that the essential part of the service is the reciprocal taking each other for wedded wife and husband, and the circular shape denoting that love should circulate and flow continuously.

It is still termed the fourth finger in the Prayer Book, though we are accustomed rather to call it the third, not reckoning the thumb in.

It was the right hand and not the left. The change from the right to the left hand is an odd product of the Reformation and, of course, the ring is now slipped immediately upon the fourth finger.

The Puritans prohibited the ring altogether as a heathenish practice, but some of their own ministers practised in spite of it, and a canon back again to the Reformation.

Why the fourth finger was selected has been much discussed.

THE "SWEET" HEROINE.

HER GROWING POPULARITY.

What is the secret of the rising popularity of the "womanly" woman—the of the eclipse, in fiction and popular interest, of the type of "independent," the type that ruled a few years ago?

Judging by more than one recent indication we are making rapid progress, in the fashion of a crab, to a point at which we stood near a century ago—to a new phase of Early Victorianism. The "sweet" heroine is once more coming into vogue; she is bobbing up gently in books and in plays and the flounce that becomes her is warmly encouraged by the dressmaker. Her independent sister is nowhere in the race—was it not announced to us a few days ago that, of "sweet girl graduates," only one of four fulfils the normal destiny of woman?

MAN'S REACTION AGAINST INDEPENDENCE.

The explanation of that very high percentage may be found, in part, in the modern man's reaction against independent womanhood. In his obvious reversion to his grandfather's outlook, his grandfather's ideal of marriage.

That outlook and ideal were very easily summarized by Dr. Josiah Olden, a high-spirited, earnest, and somewhat of a humorist, who said: "A woman who will love to become a mother, a woman who will be proud of her children, a woman who will be proud of her husband, a woman who will be proud of her home, a woman who will be proud of her country, a woman who will be proud of her race, a woman who will be proud of her God, a woman who will be proud of her soul, a woman who will be proud of her life, a woman who will be proud of her death, a woman who will be proud of her resurrection, a woman ## PROHIBITION ON SHIPS.

WASHINGTON, May 19th.
Sir Auckland Geddes, G.O.M.G., K.C.B. (British Ambassador at Washington) has made representations to the United States Government in regard to an extension of the time for the enforcement of prohibition within the three mile limit for the benefit of British ships from distant ports which will be unable to reach America before June 10th.

A POLISH ASSASSINATION.

WARSAW, May 19th.
M. Olewinski, Vice-President of the Polish Ministry of Agriculture has been assassinated in the street. The motive is stated to be personal vengeance.

BELGIAN STATE WORKERS ON STRIKE.

LONDON, May 19th.
The effects of the recent strike of railwaymen and postal workers and other State employees in Belgium is spreading. The action of the Government in calling up all the railway, telegraph, telephone and postal workers belonging to the 1915-1922 classes has been challenged in the Chamber, which eventually voted confidence in the Government by an overwhelming majority, but the Socialists abstained from voting. A Brussels message now reports that the strike is interfering with international traffic, for example the Ostend-Constantinople train has been stopped at Jemelle and the Constantinople-Ostend express had been held up at Arlon.

As a sequel to the debates in the Chamber of Representatives, the National Union states that it has decided to send delegates to the principal centres to induce the railwaymen to resume passenger traffic.

WORLD OF SPORT.

LONDON, May 19th.
At Leeds in the 2700 Professional Golf Tournament final, H. C. Jolly of Foxgrove beat the American, Walter Hagen, holder of the British open championship, by two holes.
The match was most exciting but Jolly was very cool throughout. After the turning he was two up and finished the round one up. He became four up at the seventh hole in the second round, but Hagen won the eighth and halved the ninth and tenth. Hagen then won the 11th, 12th and 13th making all secure. The next three were halved. Hagen was bunkered at the seventh, and Jolly holding out with a seven-iron putt became dormy one. Both were bunkered at the eighteenth but Hagen was terribly short with a seven-iron putt, Jolly holding out from a difficult lie to win.

LONDON, May 19th.
At St. Andrew's playing for the Walker Amateur Golf Cup, America, the holders, beat Great Britain by 6 matches to 3. Great Britain won the four matches to 3 to 1; America won the singles 5 to 2; the remaining single being halved. The weather was glorious and the field was crowded. The British players led in five matches at the end of the first round. The remainder ended all square, but the Americans put up the most dogged fight, the British players appearing to crack up under the strain.

Withered and Outmet halved. Tolley beat Sweetser by 3 and 1; Gardner beat Harris by one; Rotun beat McKenzie by 6 and 4; Marston beat Hope 5 and 4; Wright beat Holderness by one; Willing beat Murray by one; Wilson beat Heron by one.

A large crowd followed the rival captains and the crowd of the first round. Harris struggled gallantly, but just failed to halve the match. Tolley won his match comfortably. At the turn he was seven up in the second round. Thereafter he slackened. Wethered was two up with three to play, but Outmet rallied and took the 10th and 11th and halved the 12th and 13th, making a glorious three.

New York, May 19th.
The State Athletic Commission has forbidden the fight between Firpo and Joe Willard at New York, on the ground that Willard is too old.

A WHITE SEA INCIDENT.

LONDON, May 19th.
The story of an exciting encounter with a Bolshevik gunboat in the White Sea on March 28th, is told by the skipper of the Grimsby trawler, Jerin. The Russian gunboat appeared when the Jerin was fifteen miles from land, and ordered the trawler to follow her to port. The skipper ignored the order and edged off towards the British gunboat Goddin, which was twenty miles distant. The Russians manned their guns and fired across the Jerin which manœuvred and sent up distress signals. The Goddin approached with guns manned and the Russian gunboat disappeared.

THE VOROWSKY MURDER.

BERNE, May 19th.
The Government has received a Note from the Soviet Government, charging it with responsibility for the murder of Vorowsky.
The Federal Council has decided to reply refusing to accept the Note.

CARNEGIE ANNUITIES.

NEW YORK, May 19th.
The annual convention of the Socialist Party has passed a resolution demanding the impeachment of ex-President Taft for accepting a $10,000 annuity from the Carnegie Corporation, bequeathed to him by Mr. Carnegie, as well as $50,000 each to the widow of ex-President Cleveland and ex-President Roosevelt, as a hint that Congress should provide for the support of ex-Presidents and their families.

FOR A LAME BACK.

When you have pains or lameness in the back, take the pain with Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice a day, massaging with the palm of the hand for five minutes at each application. Then dampen a piece of flannel slightly with water and apply it to the sore spot. The balm will relieve the pain. For sale by all Chemists and Druggists.

AETHRA.

LOST PLANET RE-DISCOVERED.

AN ASTRONOMICAL SURPRISE.

Much interest has been aroused in astronomical circles by the announcement that the long lost planet Aethra has been found on a photograph of the region of the sky lying between the constellations Gemini, Taurus, and Orion.

The discovery has been made at the Algiers Observatory, a branch of the Paris Observatory, by M. Jekhowsky, and has been confirmed by a similar photograph taken by M. Beljarsky at the Russian Observatory in the Crimea.

Observations subsequently made have enabled its orbit to be calculated, with the result that it resembles that of Aethra so closely as to justify the belief that it is that planet, and not an entirely new discovery.

Aethra was discovered in the summer of 1873 by Prof. J. G. Watson at the Ann Arbor Observatory, Michigan, U.S.A., and the observations made at the time showed orbit to be so greatly eccentric that while at times it approached the sun within 154,000,000 miles, at others it receded to a distance twice as great the period of its revolution around the sun coming out at 1,434 days.

ELUDED SEARCH.

The planet should, therefore, have returned to a position favourable for its observation from the earth at intervals of about four years, but the last fifty years it has successfully eluded all search for it. Prof. Watson, the discoverer of Aethra, also discovered several other minor planets, and at his death bequeathed a sum of money to the American National Academy of Sciences from which to recompense astronomers who undertook to perfect the tables of the elements he had calculated.

Such work necessitates frequent observations of the planets, and it is remarkable that notwithstanding this inducement to keep Aethra under observation wherever possible no one has ever succeeded in getting a glimpse of it since 1873 until M. Jekhowsky had the luck to track it down the other day in the clear skies of Algiers.

The family of minor planets contains some very remarkable bodies. Eros, for example, occasionally comes within 13,000,000 miles of the earth, nearer than any other planetary body, and this fact has enabled it to be used to correct previous estimates of the sun's mean distance, the value obtained by this method being 92,843,000 miles.

Another, discovered in 1920, has an orbit so elliptical that its least and greatest distances from the sun vary from 300,000,000 miles to nearly 900,000,000 miles, reaching almost from Mars to Saturn and actually crossing the path of Jupiter.

HANDLESS ARTIST.

WAR VETERAN'S WORK.

History records a certain Giuseppe Mezzofanti who was born without arms and yet achieved fame as a painter.

Mr. H. Weaver Hawkins, whose etchings and water-colours were on view at Elliott and Fry's Galleries in Baker-street during mail week does not, like Mezzofanti, hold his brush between his toes, but, having lost one hand in the war, and the other hand permanently disabled, he manipulates his brush or etching point with what remains of his mutilated arms.

And he does so with astonishing skill. Both his water-colours and his etched plates can be appreciated on their own merits without any allowance being made for the physical disability under which they are produced.

The street views of Tangier are particularly notable for the subtle observation of shadow colour in a land of sunshine and heat so intense that all shadows are lightened and rendered transparent by reflected light.

Mr. Hawkins is at his best when he uses his delicate washes on a basis of pen drawing. His pure water-colour drawings are a little vague and lacking in structure and substance.

Quite surprising is a "Study of the Nude" which has a firmness of line and nervous accentuation scarcely to be expected in work done under such exceptional conditions, when the pencil is not guided by a flexible wrist, but by a movement emanating from the torso.

Despondency is often caused by indigestion and constipation and quickly disappears when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is taken. It shows the bowels are at work and the blood is purified by all Chemists and Druggists.

BROADCASTING MUSIC.

RECENT COVENT GARDEN EXPERIMENTS.

Is the Covent Garden experiment in the broadcasting of opera the first to be made? Mr. L. Stanton Jeffries, the director of the London station of the British Broadcasting Company, thinks that it is. "Opera has been broadcasted before," he said, in a conversation with a representative of The Observer, "but so far as we know, only as a studio performance, arranged for the purpose, the singers and players being assembled at the broadcasting station. This was done in New York recently. Our broadcasting of Siegfried, Figaro, etc., during the past fortnight has, on the other hand, been done direct from the opera house, the microphones being erected, as some of the audience may have noticed, immediately behind the footlights."

"Are you satisfied with the results obtained?"
"On the whole we are," replied Mr. Jeffries, "yet it should be known that the whole scheme was very hurriedly put into operation the apparatus being set up, and all the arrangements made, within a week. We note that the music critic of The Observer felt that he heard clearly enough to be able to give a detailed critical account of the performance, discussing it (so far as musical performance is concerned) exactly as he discussed the operas heard from his box in the house, and it is clear, therefore, that the singers and orchestra were fully audible to him. Nevertheless, on some future occasion, with more detailed preparation, we believe we could do far better. Indeed, there is no reason why a short time hence opera performance should not be widely enjoyed everywhere by people in their own homes, though, of course, they will not be able to see the action."

"I understand that on some occasions during the past fortnight you have tried to get over this lack of the dramatic side of the enjoyment by giving a description of the action as it took place?"

"That is speaking from my seat in the prompt box I have during one or two evenings given out such announcements as 'The Count is killed,' and the like. We should very much like to know whether this sort of thing is appreciated. Speaking personally, and as a musician, I rather object to it, but the greatest service to the greatest number is our aim, and it would be useful if the owners of the more than twenty-thousand instruments that were picking up the music would write and give us their views. We like communications from listeners. We get some every day, and they are a very valuable guide."

"Now that the Covent Garden season of the National Opera Company is ended, what are your plans?"

"Our regular evening concert scheme continues, of course. In this we try to give variety. We have people listening who like 'classical' music and others who prefer 'popular' music, and we attempt to please both. The words 'classical' and 'popular' are, of course, incapable of precise definition, and we expect to find both that a great deal of what we give as 'popular' is appreciated by the 'highbrow,' and, equally, a great deal of what we call 'classical' is appreciated by the 'well-to-do' other man. Eventually we hope to issue programmes in advance, so that people may plan their evenings in such a way as to hear the music in which they are most interested."

Retired Regular officers and officers of the Militia and Territorial Army are now eligible for appointment to divisional commands in the Territorial Army. Divisional commanders will receive an annual allowance of £1,150.

The German Gazette, the chief organ of the German industrial magnates, Herr Stinnes, has begun the publication of a series of preposterous attacks on France, alleged to have been written by a former British staff officer named "Strandera."

Mr. & Mrs. A. G. Cochran.
Alexander G. Cochran, Sovereign Grand Inspector General of the Juvenile Masonic Order, with Mrs. Cochran.

Sir George Fuller, new Premier of New South Wales, has arrived in London to discuss the unemployment problem with British statesmen.

Above are shown the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, millionaire inventor, and his widow, now Baroness d'Erlanger, of Paris, with their daughter, Ann Cooper Hewitt. Members of the family assert the child was adopted by the millionaire and his wife, and as such declare she is not entitled to the $30,000 yearly allowance left her by her father. Baroness d'Erlanger bitterly denies the charges of Mr. Hewitt's sisters, asserting Mr. Hewitt was the father of the child.

John K. Mitchell.

John Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury multi-millionaire, has, it is said, been revealed as the mysterious "Mr. Marshall," who was the heavy "sugar daddy" of Dorothy Keenan King, the New York model, who was found murdered in her apartment.

Queen Wilhelmina.

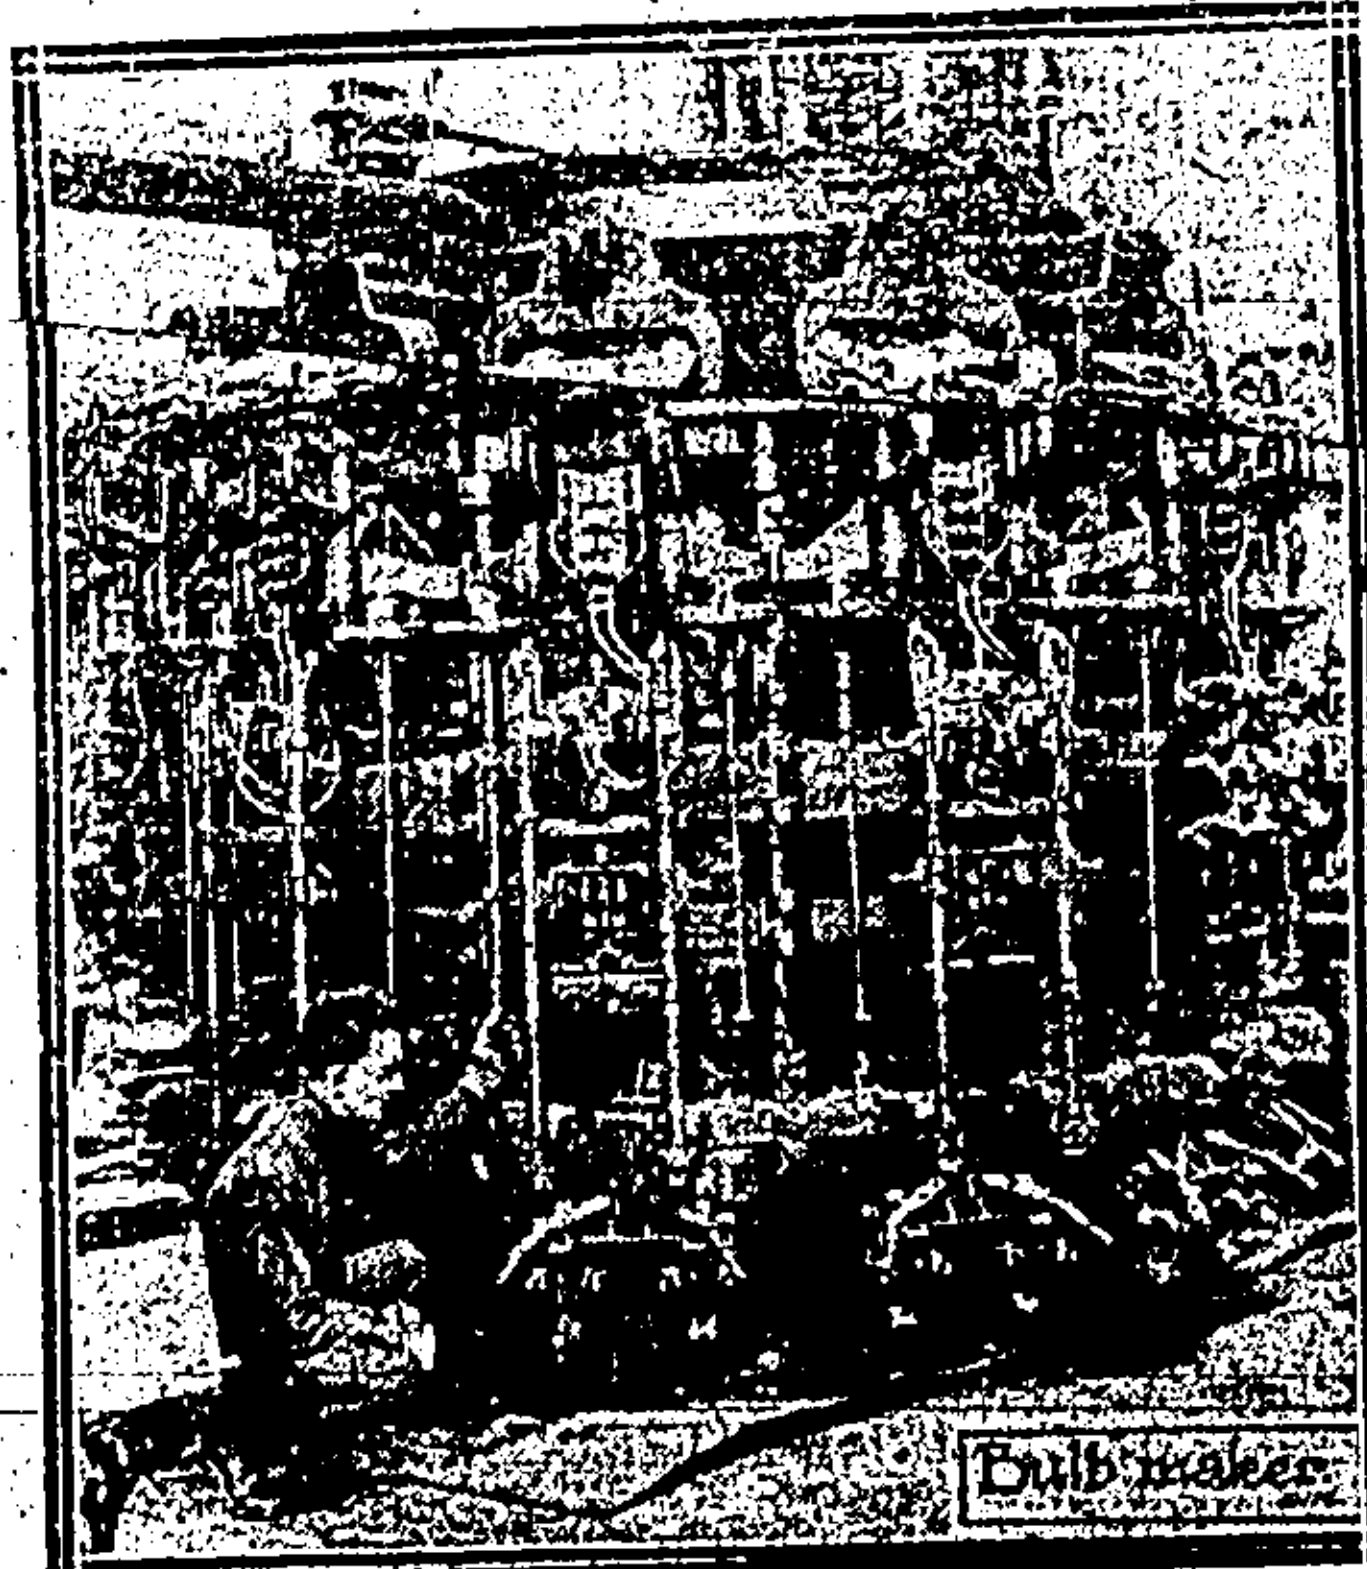

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, who intends to visit England this year, travelling incognito as is customary during her annual trip abroad. Queen Wilhelmina Helena Paulina Maria was born in 1880. She succeeded her late father, King William III, in 1890, and was married in 1901 to Prince Henry, Prince of the Netherlands and Duke of Mecklenburg.

Mrs. Annabelle McGinnis, widow of a murdered fireman, was exonerated by a coroner's jury, but was arrested by the police on a charge of murder.

J. H. Jackson, well-known attorney, has been revealed as the mysterious "Mr. Wilson" who accompanied John Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury, on his visits to Dorothy Keenan King, the murdered New York City model.

This machine, containing more than 14,000 parts, is used for blowing incandescent lamp bulbs and has a working capacity of 50,000 a day.

O. P. Goode.

A. M. Taylor.

Miss Catherine Canova.

Miss Catherine L. Canova has been chosen to play the part of Queen Isabella, in the Ponce de Leon celebration, in Florida. She is a descendant of Spanish nobility who settled in Florida in 1565. The celebration marks the anniversary of the discovery of Florida in 1512. O. P. Goode will play the part of Pedro Mendez de Aviles, founder of the city of St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States. A. M. Taylor will play the part of Ponce de Leon, searcher for the "Fountain of Perpetual Youth."
